For
all ages
from 13+

A board game for young people aged 13-19 years old about life's opportunities, risks and challenges... sexual health and behaviour, alcohol, tobacco and other drugs

Life Matters is an engaging and interesting way for young people to learn about sexual health, drug, alcohol and tobacco issues. Up to twelve people can play the game at one time. It is an enjoyable way of focusing young people on such issues and has proven to be extremely effective in engaging young people in discussions around sexual health and sexual behaviour, alcohol, smoking and other drugs. The game throws up the unexpected, just like life! It takes knowledge and understanding of a wide variety of issues and sound decision making to become a winner, just like life! With a role of the dice and an unlucky turn of the card/decision, everything can change.
